Producing relevant and compelling films
that touch people's hearts with hope and reflect the love of Jesus.

If a picture is worth 1,000 words – a moving picture is worth so much more! God is leading Ryan Lee Taylor to use his passion for storytelling and filmmaking to help create films that open people's eyes to spiritual needs, revealing God's timeless truths around the world.

In God's creative way, He prepared Ryan through his upbringing on the mission field, years of studying and practicing the craft of storytelling, as well as a degree in writing and directing from the Colorado Film School, in order to use stories to reach hearts for His kingdom.

Today, Ryan has been appointed to work with GemStone Media, a ministry of Greater Europe Mission, in the Black Forest of Germany. His passion is to help GemStone, through writing and directing, to develop films that are shared worldwide to open people's eyes to spiritual truths and reveal the compassionate heart of God to those who don't know Him.

The Kingdom: Filmed in the lush vineyards of Kosovo and on the beaches of Montenegro, this 23-time award winning movie, a modern-day retelling of the prodigal son story, has been touching hearts across the U.S. and Europe with its themes of the father's love, forgiveness and reconciliation for his sons.

'The Kingdom' movie is going to be very successful here. There is nothing like it. There is absolutely nothing like it. This is like the modern day 'Jesus Film' but obviously a completely different style. I know it's going to have great, great success.

~ Nicolas Girard, Italian Evangelist/Church planter

The Traveler: Based on the Beatitudes from Matthew 5 and filmed in the Pamir Mountains of Tajikistan, this colorful, culturally-relevant movie is now being used as a forerunner to Bible translation and the gospel being shared there and in surrounding countries.

Adagio: GemStone Media is now embarking on their most important, ambitious film yet. Set within the backdrop of pristine Switzerland, this feature film will address the epidemic issue of suicide that's occurring there, with the goal of sharing a message of hope with those who've sunk into hopelessness, both in Switzerland and around the world.

GemStone Media offers their films for free to churches and ministries around the world thanks to the contributions of monthly and annual donors. A $100/month donation will enable Ryan to help write and develop the new Swiss film project Adagio, thus opening up more ministry outreach opportunities around the globe.

Your partnership with Ryan will have a worldwide impact, as churches and ministries around the world connect with unbelievers through these positive, engaging films that speak to people's hearts and bring about real life transformation for God's glory.
